EVERY VARIETY OF Fresh Fish

—and SEAFOOD from river, lake and ocean, that is, sea, ice and light. The animal contest was highly exciting. The first prizes were won by Miss Maddox and Mr. Thompson. An old-fashioned cotillion was called and enjoyed by the entire company of thirty-four couples, who were to the dining room by the hostess of the occasion, Miss Somerville of Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Platt and Miss Platt have returned to the city for the winter, and are living at 2500 14th street.

A Haloween party was held at 1002 M street, the house being tastefully decorated with flowers and palms. Jack-o'-lanterns made from pumpkins and lighted with candles threw a weird light into nooks and cozy corners. Tricks suitable for the occasion were indulged in. Of those that were new and catchy, the "shoe holding" and the passing under of the marble hand caused much merriment, with repeated laughter and guessing who would be the winner of the marble hand. IN WHITE AND GREEN

Flowers and Vines Beautifully Adorn John-son House.

Ceremony at Noon Followed by a Wedding Breakfast—Halloween Parties—Personal Notes.

Mrs. E. Kurtz Johnson's spacious home near Scott Circle was profusely adorned with flowers today for the marriage of her only daughter, Sara, to Dr. Hugh Holmes McGuire, son of Dr. Hunter McGuire of Richmond. The ceremony took place at noon within a bower of palms, arranged in the tower window of the reception room, curtained off by draperies of asparagus vines. Throughout this room and the spacious drawing room adjoining only white flowers, roses and chrysanthemums were used, with great quantities of vines and foliage plants. In the dining room pink flowers predominated, and the effect was very pretty. Owing to the recent death of the bride's uncle, only a family party, immediate relatives of the bride and groom, were present. The latter was accompanied by a number of other relatives. The bride was escorted to the drawing room by her eldest brother, Mr. Richard A. Johnson. Dr. Stuart McGuire of Richmond being best man for his brother. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of St. Matthew's Church, Rev. Thomas S. Lee.

The radiant bride was elegantly gowned in white satin, richly trimmed with point lace which nicely covered the high-necked bodice and formed an apron effect on the front of the skirt. Her all-enveloping veil of tulle fell from under a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white chrysanthemums and bride roses. She wore no jewels.

A wedding breakfast was served before Dr. and Mrs. McGuire left for their bridal journey. The objective point of the "shoe" did not reveal. The bride's going away costume was of blue cloth, with a hat to her presents were numerous and valuable, and consisted largely of superb articles of jewelry. Among other gifts, Mrs. Johnson gave her daughter a diamond bracelet.

Dr. and Mrs. McGuire have not yet quite decided whether to make their permanent home in Richmond, Washington or Alexandria, in the latter city Dr. McGuire is already established in practice.

Mrs. Johnson, accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard A. Johnson, will leave in a few weeks for the Hot Springs, Arkansas, to spend the winter for the benefit of the former's health.

Mrs. William Hedian, who has been visiting her parents, has returned to her home in Baltimore.

Captain and Mrs. George B. Haycock and their son, Mr. Scott Haycock, have returned to Washington for the season, and are domiciled in their residence on 19th street.

Wimodaughis will hold its weekly informal reception this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Mrs. Dickinson, the president, is absent from the city, but Mrs. A. S. Hamilton, past president of Wimodaughis, will receive the guests.

Mrs. Frank Randolph, who has been spending three weeks in Lexington, Ky., and her husband, has gone to visit friends in Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Platt and Miss Platt have returned to the city for the winter, and are living at 2500 14th street.
